EMERGENCY FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

for rent/mortgage and utilities to prevent eviction and maintain access to housing, electricity, and water.

Simon's life took an unexpected turn when complications from routine surgery in December left him out of work for months. As he waited for his short-term disability benefits to be approved, he relied on credit cards to cover some of his expenses. By the time his first disability check arrived, Simon was behind on his rent and electric bill. Despite using the income to pay back rent payments, Simon still faced overdue bills and the current month's rent with his next check a month away. At the recommendation of a neighbor, Simon reached out to Crisis Control Ministry for emergency financial assistance during this challenging time. Thanks to the support of Crisis Control, Simon received help with his rent and electrical bill, allowing him to focus on his recovery. Simon recently returned to work, grateful for the helping hand that guided him through this difficult period.
